Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1,3-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Schulman et al '474.

Schulman is considered to render obvious all of the subject matter of the above claims. Schulman teaches an external neural stimulator 138, and a programmer 108, (see column 9, line 29 to column 10 line 13). The ability of the stimulator to communicate with the programmer is considered obvious since the programmer is capable of performing diagnostics tests which would need to be verified by the stimulator; as is taught in the patent, the stimulator can be used for programming. Further, the implantable lead called for in the claims is considered to be obvious over the electrode array 114 of Schulman, since both enable electrical stimulation of neural tissue via electrodes. Still further, regarding claims 13,16 and 17, the 'whereby' clauses of those claims do not further limit the structure or methodology of the body of the claims.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claim 22 is allowed.

4. Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
